

ingstreetgallery.com.au

VANGUS NIV.

Precious (second vers
2009, acrylic on canva

I live in regional NSW Tableland, we wash in collected from our ro Storms can often dry never the colour of ur Rather, it is the colour has become hotter, dr it is life.

Courtesy of Utopia Art Syd utopiaartsydney.com.au

< RODNEY POPLE

Untitled, 2009, oil and photographic media on linen

In this painting, the shark's incongruous displacement from nature is unexpected and unsettling.
The shopping mall is a favourite and universal human habitat, one of the built environments most divorced from the nature

^ AMANDA PENROSE HART

Punishable by death, 2009, zinc, plastic, stone, oil paint

"Punishable by Death" is a bit of a scoff about the strange suburb where I live. Every house has a pool but the water police stealthily patrol the area hunting down water violations and guilt permeates the guise of each and every individual desperate to use their hose to fill the

